Course leaders comments

Teacher comments on course evaluation

First, since the response rate is low (22%), the possibility of drawing general conclusions is low. However, after having a meeting with the student representative, I conclude that I will introduce a seminar, focusing on some of the most important aspects of agricultural cooperatives, for example how these are financed, governed, and also on international examples.

Since students continue to complain about finding enough time for the course, having to prioritize the parallel course on research methods, we (i.e., the teachers involved) will continue the work to solve this problem next year.

I will also find ways to encourage students to fill in the course evaluation.
